CARBON LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL

The White Sox will be holding out for more money at contract time next spring due to the very good showing they made this year. So the Carbon Lions Club better have their cheque books ready (that is according to assistant manager ½ & ½ Goacher).

We finished the league with only one defeat and the team we had to beat was Swallow who suffered only two defeats. Flip Wood chucked no hit ball for four innings and was a little because he wanted to finish with a perfect game, but Metz Metzger was called in to finish the game and did so in fine style with a no hit ball game.

Heavy clubs for Carbon were Permann with a round tripper and a single, Yogi Stubbart with three singles—one he stretched into a homer (that guy sure likes to run). He rounded out the year with a .900 batting average (my boy—I like to brag). The catch of the game was by Kozy Kozak, he ran two miles and dove one mile to snag a foul tip (love's catch Kozy). Scooter Poole made the smart play of the evening with a pickoff at first and a toss to third for another pickoff which resulted in a double play (heads up ball). Final score was Carbon 11, Swallow 0. See you in Acme at the All Star Game Sat. July 4th at 6 o'clock.

BASEBALL BY SENIORS

I wonder what has happened to Senior Ball? Yesterday I attended a tournament in Trochu and believe me the interest was very keen—400 people hollered, booed, cheered and even swore a little. I was proud to be asked to assist on the base lines. It was like old times. We had rhubarbs, a few rough plays, over the fence homers, base stealing and angry ball fans who favor only one team right or wrong. Some of the boys played a little chicken which I don't like to see but in senior ball the boys can look out for themselves (a tip to you younger bucks). Four Carbon boys were asked to play for Swallow and believe me they did just that. Smoky Viens (ever hear of him before) pitched and won the first game, looked a little rusty but he still has enough junk to start a yard in east Calgary. Young Ken Tilley, another Pony Leaguer received both games and handled Smoky like a pro—besides he only hit 7 for 8. Wilson Redgwell who poled the long hit of the tournament (over the fence homer) and handled first base in fine fashion; Bernie Stubbart (not the old crippled one) who took care of left field and snared a shoestring catch and blasted a double and single.

Yes folks all we need is five more willing players and we would have Senior Ball in Carbon. How about it? The guys coming out of Babe Ruth are ready so let's get senior ball back into Carbon. Young Kenny Morgan pitched for Ghost Pine and lost his game by only a last inning home run. Tough luck Kenny you deserved a win

Bank Celebrates 50th Anniversary In Acme

Half a century of continuous banking service will be celebrated here next Tuesday by one of Acme's best-known institutions—the Bank of Montreal, Harry Loggin, Manager, announced this week.

Opened on July 7, 1909, the branch—the first bank in Acme—was originally an office of the Merchants Bank of Canada which later became a part of the B of M.

When the bank opened, the Acme district had been home-steaded for less than 10 years. The total population of the actual village was only 15, while a single small elevator and two general stores formed the business section of the fledgling community.

Acme was incorporated as a village on July 7, 1910—exactly one year after the establishment of the bank.

The bank's first office was located in a small shack near the corner of Main street and Pacific avenue. These premises soon became inadequate, however, and, in 1910, a two-storey frame structure was erected at the same intersection to serve as banking headquarters for the village.

Then, only two years later, this office was destroyed by fire. Similar premises were immediately erected on the same site, and the bank remained there until February, 1954, when the present modern building was constructed.

The former premises of the bank at Main and Pacific are now occupied by Mrs. H. Saily's store.

The decade following the bank's opening saw considerable growth and progress in the community. The railroad was extended north from Langdon in February, 1910, and Acme was 'the end of the steel' until 1921, the same year as the first concrete sidewalks

Garry Van Buskirk turns $1.00 into $35.00

—The REPORTER, Rapid City, Manitoba

While some people claim a dollar isn't worth as much as it was a few years ago, Garry Van Buskirk has found that if you get the right dollar it is worth far more than its face value.

Garry recently found himself in possession of a 1948 silver dollar and last week sent it to a Winnipeg firm that buys and sells old coins, stamps, bank notes, etc., and on Monday he received $35 for his 1948 silver dollar.

The Governor-General's Railway Cars

Quiet Comfort for Royal Guests

When Her Majesty, the Queen and Prince Philip make their tour of Canada this summer they will view a large part of the Canadian countryside from the windows of the Governor-General's railway cars which will carry the Royal Couple through parts of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Mr. Wilfred Notley, steward, and Percy Corbin, (right) porter, who have been with the vice-regal coaches since they were built over 30 years ago, exchange warm greetings as they meet in Ottawa's Union station where the railway cars sit, when not in use, on track number one.

Diningroom where the Queen and Prince Philip will take their meals in relaxed privacy has restful turquoise blue walls and furniture, bronze damask upholstery and drapes. Corridors in the royal coaches are Canadian oak and the drawing-room is in curly birch. Mr. Notley, in his 33 years aboard the Governor-General's railway cars, has served many distinguished visitors, among them Queen Juliana of the Netherlands, France's President Auriol and Winston Churchill.

During his 7 years in office, Mr. Massey has earned the reputation of being "Canada's most-travelled Governor-General". He has chalked up close to 200,000 miles into every corner of Canada; almost half this mileage has been covered while aboard the vice-regal railway cars.

Percy Corbin, whose home is in Montreal, was officially retired 2 years ago but is remaining with the Governor-General's cars for the duration of His Excellency's tenure of office.

N. R. CRUMP

Directs operations

N. R. Crump, President, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and top-ranking Canadian business leader, directs operations of the world's largest, most diversified, privately-owned transportation system.

Born in Revelstoke, B.C., into a railway family (his father, T. H. Crump, now living in Vancouver, B.C., retired as superintendent of Canadian Pacific's Kettle Valley division in British Columbia), Norris Roy Crump joined Canadian Pacific in 1920 at the age of 16. While working for the railway, he completed his high school education at night school and later obtained leave of absence from the Company to earn a Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, site of the American Association of Railroads' research laboratories.

He also found time to work his way through Canadian Pacific's Weston shops in Winnipeg to become a machinist and with this practical background as well as his academic training he fell naturally into the motive power and car department where he progressed rapidly to chief mechanical draftsman and later to assistant superintendent of motive power, western lines.

While employed in the motive power department in western Canada during the 1930's, he worked towards his master's degree in Mechanical Engineering at Purdue which he gained in 1936 with a thesis on diesel locomotives.

Four Canadian and two American universities, including his Alma Mater, Purdue, have conferred honorary degrees on Mr. Crump for his outstanding contributions to business and higher education.

Director of 20 corporations, including Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited, Canadian Pacific Express Company and Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited, Mr. Crump also serves as governor of McGill and Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal; trustee of Bishop's University, Sherbrooke, Que., and on the advisory committee of the School of Business Administration, University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.; Canadian Standards Association, Ottawa, and Conservation for Canada, Foundation Corporation.

His career with Canadian Pacific has taken him to every part of Canada. Following his experience in western Canada, Mr. Crump came to Montreal in 1942 as assistant to the vice-president; became in 1943 general superintendent of the Ontario district, Toronto; in 1944 assistant general manager, eastern region Toronto; in 1946, general manager, and in 1947 vice-president and general manager, eastern region.

In April, 1948, Mr. Crump became vice-president with jurisdiction over all lines, at Montreal headquarters. He was elected a director of the company in February, 1949, and vice-president and member of the executive committee in May, 1949. He was elected President on May 4, 1955.

A freak calf was born on the farm of Ed. Jones in the Bromhill district recently. The animal has no left eye and no tail, but is thriving. Mr. Jones told the recorder. It is a big calf, the offspring of a Hereford bull and a Holstein mother.

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY BUILDING—The new $475,000 Animal Husbandry Building at the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon will be officially opened on June 13 by the university president, Dr. W. P. Thompson. Main address at the ceremony will be delivered by the Hon. I. C. Nolle, Minister of Agriculture of Saskatchewan. The building is of contemporary design, using red brick and curtain wall construction in keeping with the other buildings in the area. It has 15,000 square feet of floor space in one wing of one storey and one wing of two storeys. Teaching and laboratory space can be extended in the future if desired.

NEW ANIMAL HUSBANDRY BUILDING OPENED

President W. P. Thompson of the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon officially opened the new $475,000 Animal Husbandry Building at the university June 13.

The ceremony began at 1 p.m. with University Chancellor F. H. Auld acting as chairman. Dr. Auld gave an account of the historical background of the animal husbandry department and introduced guests. Among those on the guest list were representatives of the provincial government, livestock breed associations, feed manufacturers and the meat packing industry.

Main address was delivered by the Hon. I. C. Nolle, minister of agriculture of Saskatchewan, who turned over the keys to C. H. Whiting, chairman of the university's Board of Governors. Mr. Whiting, after brief remarks of acceptance, presented the keys to Dr. Thompson for the formal opening of the building. A tour of the new premises followed.

PORK PROMOTION—Assistant Deputy Minister (Administration) S. J. Chagnon, Canada Department of Agriculture, attended a Toronto luncheon for food editors to draw attention to an economical method of reducing the country's pork surplus—eat more pork. ### START CANNING SURPLUS PORK

Canning of some of the 70,000,000 pounds of pork held in cold storage by the Agricultural Stabilization Board has already started, a senior Canada Department of Agriculture spokesman told a Toronto meeting.

R. K. Bennett, chief of merchandising in the Livestock Division, said foreign markets are also being explored, although any such sales would be at a loss to the board.

Normal storage at this season is around 18,000,000 pounds of pork.

Speaking at a pork promotion luncheon, Mr. Bennett said the best market for pork is the home market. Per capita consumption of pork in Canada last year was 51.8 pounds, although in 1951 it was 58.6 pounds.

"An increase of five pounds per capita would wipe out the stocks on hand, and 10 pounds would eliminate the surplus for the year", said Mr. Bennett.

Production of hogs tends to follow rhythmic cycles, and this year, with record or near-record marketings, appears to be the peak of the present hog cycle.

Farmers cannot turn production off and on like a water tap and nothing can be done about the small pigs now on feed but continue to prepare them for marketing in the next six months.

An outstanding job has been done in the distribution of pork, said Mr. Bennett. Domestic consumption is up.

In March, Canadians ate an average of 145,000 hogs per week.

The weekly average for all of last year was only about 110,000 and actually there were several months when it was less than 98,000 hogs.

This, he said, was a tribute to what has been accomplished by the food industry with respect to pork.

Not photogenic

(The Sun, Swift Current, Sask.)

The funniest thing happened to a Sun reporting team recently. A reporter, out on a pre-presstime beat, spotted a mix-up of cars at the intersection of Chaplin street and First Avenue N.E. The scene looked pretty photogenic, so he flashed a summons to the cameraman in the news-room, who grabbed his birdie-box and rushed to the location with his shutter cocked.

The cameraman was getting set to record the car-truck accident for posterity when the funny thing happened: The photo-frame went blank, and he looked around the camera to see an angry man standing between him and the picture target with his arms spread out in a protective gesture. The fellow kept yelling, "You can't photograph this—it's a government car! We don't want a federal case made of this!"

The fellow looked so belligerent that the cameraman lowered his birdie-box and withdrew. But he was still smarting at the rough treatment he got from the "government man" when the team reached the city police station, where they went to get details of the smash-up. They knew it wasn't big enough to rock Japan, but everything is grist for the news-mill, including accidents involving government cars.

But they came back to the news-room with their tails between their legs, minus a picture AND a story. For some reason or other, the police had been almost as unco-operative as the government man. And this is most unusual, because generally Chief Hart and his staff go out of their way to promote harmony between "the law and the Fourth Estate."

"Since when," asked the reporter who first spotted the accident, "have government personnel and government cars been immune to news media? If it had been Joe Blow that was involved we'd have had no trouble getting the coverage."

And do you know another funny thing? The editor had to agree with him.

Blossom time in the EID

(The Bulletin, Brooks, Alta.)

This is blossom time in the Eastern Irrigation District and those who visit Brooks and district farms where fruit trees are grown are assured of a treat. Fruit orchards in bloom are like fairy lands.

Once this stretch of territory was bald-headed, treeless prairie. The gramma grass stretched off on all sides to far horizons. In its natural state the region is semi-arid. The lack of trees and the short herbage in many years is evidence of that fact.

Irrigation water changed the scene. Now most farms have tall windbreaks and nicely-shaded lawns and homes. Fruit culture has developed, thanks to the government horticultural station, and will become more general as time goes on. Many farm families raise enough fruit for their own needs and have surpluses to sell.

While we do not seek to rival the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia as a fruit producing region, we are making progress. It is in the late spring that the fruit trees here are at their best from a scenic viewpoint and then we offer a modest rivalry to the sights in the Okanagan Valley.

Top praise "Our Weekly"

(The Province, Innisfail, Alta.)

The greatest and strongest term in the world of journalism is "our weekly newspaper", used by subscribers, it makes the famed editorial "we" look like a mere weakling.

The term our "weekly newspaper", too, in recent years has spread into more conversations than any other. It is a term used by our subscribers with a feeling of ownership and often pride.

Readers use the term many times each week as they discuss the merits of advertisement; the pro and con of an editorial or the information in a news story. They like to say, "I saw it in our weekly newspaper", or according, "to our weekly newspaper".

Major advertising companies and firms realize that the weekly newspaper, described hundreds of times in Canadian communities as "our weekly newspaper" is top assurance that the publications are doing a job that is unequalled in any field of publishing or advertising.

Your Emergency Pack

By HELEN A. MARTENSON
Director of Public Relations and
Publicity for Prov. Civil Defence

Ever have that awful "pantry panic" when the unexpected guest arrives 20 minutes before lunch? Do your youngsters have qualms about asking their friends home to Sunday night suppers? When two or three of the "girls" drop in, can you make a simple festivity of it without being unruffled in spirit?

If you would taste the joys of unworried hospitality, try this scheme. Make out one or two good, quickly prepared menus for luncheon or tea, and then arrange an emergency shelf high up in your cupboard and keep there all the necessary materials for these meals. Thanks to cans, jars and bottles, the wherewithall for delicious informal meals is always possible, above all, don't borrow from this emergency shelf unless the grocer is on his way with the replacement package.

Every homemaker will appreciate the foregoing paragraphs. When you live in the country or a small town, there is no corner store or cafe open after six. When you live in the city, you may not find it possible in time or convenience to go out and get something to fill the need. Or it might be the day before payday when funds are skimpiest.

Because this is a universal need and can be applied on a larger scale, Civil Defence has worked out a plan, not for the casual guest, but for the time when a disaster might make it impossible to get food. That could be a blizzard that would keep you snowed in or prevent railways and trucks from bringing food into town. It could be a flood or tornado, fire or earthquake, or even that dread of dreads—an enemy bomb. Any of these would upset all existing arrangements for food purchases.

No doubt each one of us could get supplies of food on hand, but Civil Defence realized the need of a balanced food selection, suitable to be eaten cold if heat was not available, and a quantity enough for seven days, which could be stretched to 14 days if the emergency was great.

Civil Defence was not content with merely making up this list of needed foods, but they tested it by sending a man with his wife and two children into the woods where they subsisted on these foods. The result was excellent. Not only did they have sufficient food, but three of them even gained weight.

Briefly, the pack contains the following items for each child:

- 2 gallons of water
- 2 cans evaporated milk (pound size)
- 3 20-oz. tins citrus juice
- 3 15-oz. cans fruit
- 1 small jar cheese
- 7 small packages cereals
- 3 15 or 20-oz. cans vegetables
- Tea bags
- Instant coffee
- Instant chocolate
- 1 can meat
- 1 can fish
- 1 can beans
- 1 can soup
- Cookies
- Crackers
- Hard candy
- Sugar, salt and pepper
- Honey, jam, jelly, etc.

For each young child include 4 tins of milk, extra water and decrease amounts of other foods. For each infant, include 7 cans of milk, extra water and baby food.

These foods should be stored in a good container and should be augmented by a can opener, knife, spoon, paper cups and paper plates. A heating unit and fuel, flashlight and first aid kit are essential. Blankets and wool socks, reading matter and games should be included.

When assembled in a cardboard carton, it is a simple matter to load it into the car, which should never have less than a half tank of gas. Or the pack can be kept in the basement for use any time. Water should be in glass jars and changed every month when stored. Take this emergency pack when you go camping, when you take motor trips in which you camp or even stay at motels. But be sure to have it ready and available for use if an emergency should arise.

In early times before telephones were common, a family would pack up and drive 15 or 20 miles to visit a neighbor. They never went empty handed. Invariably they would take something along for the meal, a cake, berry pie, slice of bacon or some fresh bread.

THE STORY OF THE C.G.I.T.

From Mrs. R. L. Lindsay

What does C.G.I.T. stand for? Who are those girls wearing white middie blouses and dark skirts? What do they do? What are they training for? Because we are so often asked questions like these we'd like to say a few words to answer them for the people who want to know.

C.G.I.T. simply stands for Canadian Girls in Training. They are an active group and engage in all kinds of useful projects to help people. The C.G.I.T. is a church-guided program for girls of 12 to 17 years of age. Its concern is the development of Christian beliefs, attitudes and responses to everyday living. The girls in the local group come from various religious denominations, but the main leadership is generally connected with the United Church of Canada in most communities.

One of the organization's requirements is that the girls must be in regular attendance at the church Sunday school, and the C.G.I.T. mid-week meetings. We believe that this helps the girls grow into responsible Christian citizens and church members.

The mid-week program includes worship, games, singing, current business, and craft work, Bible study, mission study, or discussion and activities to serve the church and community. This is both fun and educational for the participants. The C.G.I.T. program is founded on a Bible passage, (Luke 2:52) "And Jesus increased in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man."

C.G.I.T. pledge

The Canadian Girl in Training takes the following pledge: "As a Canadian Girl in Training, under the leadership of Jesus, it is my purpose to: cherish health, seek truth, know God, and serve others, and thus, with His help, become the girl God would have me to be." All the girls strive to fulfil and live up to this pledge.

The regulation uniform consists of a white middie blouse, a navy blue collar, a black knotted tie, and a dark skirt. Different monograms and insignia are worn to designate individual accomplishments and responsibilities.

The Steinbach group is a relatively young one. It was started in the fall of 1957, under the leadership of Mrs. Ken Toews and Mrs. B. Doerksen. There were only 10 members in the group. Last fall, membership grew to 18, with Mrs. Dan Barkman and Mrs. Ray Lindsay taking over as leaders.

If you had to leave your home because of an emergency, your emergency food pack would be welcome at the place to which you would be evacuated.

From every angle, preparation and accessibility of a seven day food pack, are wise precautions. For a pamphlet on your Emergency or Evacuation Pack, write to the Provincial CD Headquarters, Administration Building, Regina. And, remember, that by looking ahead and being prepared, Canadians can care for themselves no matter what happens. How about assembling your emergency pack at your earliest convenience?

Many projects

To raise money, the group sold Halloween kiss candies and from the proceeds bought 10 new uniforms. In November the C.G.I.T. had a table at the Women's Federation tea. Such things as Christmas puddings, aprons, corsages, and home baking were made and sold. Before Christmas we presented a vesper candle lighting service at the United Church. Later at a party we packaged parcels for the folks in the Invalid Home. Contributions of food and baked goods were sent to needy people in the community.

A special initiation ceremony and lunch was held at the church and the girls made scrap books and donated supplies for the Sunday School. The girls have offered their services as baby sitters and helpers. The girls have just completed a mission study on "Friendship and Neighborliness."

To conclude, we are planning a special evening at which we plan to invite girls and leaders from other churches to come and visit the group. In doing so, we want to spread friendliness throughout the community and acquaint more people with the C.G.I.T.

We'd like to take this opportunity to thank all our friends who have helped with the work.

CASUAL OCCASIONS call for casual clothes and the smart woman is both casually and well dressed for an evening at a friend's. Her escort, too, should compliment her in his choice of clothes. The man's jacket here is in light and soft lambswool. Stripes in menswear are still important but, as here, they are subdued and often in brown tones. His slacks are in browned olive drab flannel. Her dress is in apricot sheer wool; very soft and wearable.

PERMIT NOW NEEDED TO IMPORT BIRDS, ANIMALS

Anybody who wants to bring a game bird or game animal into Manitoba that is not native to the province will first have to get a permit from the province, Hon. Gurney Evans, minister of mines and natural resources, said recently.

The new regulation, passed by order-in-council recently, is designed to give the game branch a measure of control over the importation of birds and animals from other countries. This control is necessary, Mr. Evans said, for two reasons, (1) public safety and (2) the welfare of local wildlife.

There are some animals that could conceivably create a danger to the public. The biggest danger of uncontrolled importation of non-native wildlife, however, is that the new species can adulterate local stock or cause too severe a competition for food and living room.

Mr. Evans said some species of wildlife behave very differently in a new environment than they do in their own normal habitat. For this reason it is necessary to know a good deal about the species before they are let into the province.

On the other hand government stocking programs of game birds, for example, might be endangered by the uncontrolled release of game birds by private organizations or individuals.

As soon as a new species of bird or animal is set loose in Manitoba it becomes public property and the responsibility of the game branch. Mr. Evans said that this responsibility for the welfare of birds and animals can only be carried out properly if there is control over importation.

He cited as an example the promotion by some unscrupulous operators of an animal known as nutria. This animal, which resembles a cross between a muskrat and a beaver, is often peddled as a means to "get rich quick" from farming them. In actual fact, Mr. Evans said, nutrias have a fur that is not in demand and never has been.

It is impossible to raise them on a fur farm and make a profit. He said that if these animals are turned loose into swamps and muskrat areas they will cause such strong competition that the muskrats will be driven out.

He said that in some parts of the United States, notably Louisiana, nutrias have become a serious problem and the prices are so low that maximum trapping is not carried out by trappers.

Mr. Evans said that while the issuing of permits will bring about control of imports, it will not be a hindrance to people with legitimate propositions.

WE DON'T WANT TO SCARE ANYONE, but if you happen to see a little monster such as the one pictured here, run like blazes. So far we haven't been able to positively identify it, but there is a suspicion that this ferocious looking insect is just as ferocious as it looks. If we're not mistaken, it's a deadly banana spider. It was brought into town on a stalk of bananas and made good its escape after being held in captivity. The photographer was lucky enough to get a picture of it while it was in a sluggish condition, but it wasn't sluggish when it escaped. It is hoped that the little monster has since died from exposure to our more rigorous climate. Anyway, it might serve as a lesson to shoppers when buying bananas. Always step on them first.

Hospital has poison centre

—THE SUN, Swift Current, Sask. Nine cases of child-poisoning were reported in the city last year, according to Health Region statistics. All five boys and four girls involved were under five years of age and received treatment in the emergency ward specially equipped to handle such cases.

The emergency ward is equipped with antidotes for all types of poison, as well as stimulants and drugs which are sometimes necessary when a patient goes into a shock condition. Oxygen and suction equipment as well as a tank of carbogen for carbon monoxide cases, are also kept within reach for emergency service.

Helen Talpash, matron of the Union hospital, said there is always a graduate nurse on duty in the emergency ward, and a chart of antidotes for all known poisons. Only once has it been necessary, she said, for a doctor to consult the poison-control centre at Regina, which speaks well for the hospital service in this regard.

Dr. Robert Bradley, Regional medical health officer, said, there are two poison-control centres in the province, one in the Regina General hospital and the other in the University hospital at Saskatoon. Both are on a 24-hour service basis.

From carefully indexed materials, physicians on duty at those centres can give any information on the ingredients or toxic substances in any preparation, Dr. Bradley said.

Quoting Dr. Stanley Best, director of child health, Bradley said: "Considering there are now some 1,150 household preparations available of which the formulas are manufacturers' secrets, the information available at these centres can be of vital importance to a physician treating a case of poisoning."

Dr. Bradley said he could not over-emphasize the importance of keeping both medications and household preparations out of reach of youngsters, especially those of one to four years.

TRAVEL TIPS—On Fabrics

Travel tipsters often say, "Nothing travels like wool or silk." Don't you believe it! Some of the best and also some of the worst travelling clothes I have owned have been in both these fibres.

It is true that no other fibre has more natural resilience than wool for shedding wrinkles but the type of weave has a lot to do which how uncrushable a wool fabric can be.

Silk too is a dandy traveller in many cases but I'll never forget a pure silk shantung that had to be pressed after every wearing. Packing reduced to a hopeless mess.

From my own experience I have found that fabrics that travel best are those with a pliable weave and a natural body or weight. This applies whether they are silk, wool or any of the dozens of types of Canadian fabrics of man-made fibres.

For example, I think jersey or knitwear are the world's best travellers. They have a pliable construction that just won't set into creases like stiffer fabrics will. Jersey of any type has a weight to it. Lift a piece of jersey in your hand and you'll see how its own weight pulls it down into folds. It is this weight which enables it to "hang out" so perfectly.

Of course these wrinkle shedding qualities can be found in varying degrees in hundreds of other types of Canadian fabrics. Try the weight test on linens, crepes, wools or any fabric which catches your fancy.

To test the resilience of fabric weaves I always gather some of the fabric into my hand and crush it as hard as I can. If it springs out uncreased when I release it, I know it is pliable. If not, I beware.

These simple tests determine which things go into my suitcase any time of year. Of course, for summer holidays, another important feature is easy washability.

Again jersey tops my list, this time jersey made from man-made fibres. For honest-to-goodness, drip-dry, no-iron qualities there is nothing like easy care jerseys in Orlon, Nylon, Arnel, or Terylene.

In hot weather though there is nothing quite so cool, crisp and comfortable to wear as cotton. Today we have cottons treated to new scientific finishes which give them a lot of the easy care qualities that are such a joy.

Next week I'll tell you how you can take it with you.

were laid.

Thus, as the terminal point for the railroad, Acme became steadily more important as a distributing centre for a large area, and the appearance of the town gradually changed. Many attractive homes were built, more gain elevators were erected and the business section expanded out of all recognition.

Throughout its 50 years of service here, the Acme office of the B of M has been renovated and improved regularly so as to keep in pace with the expanding banking requirements of the district it serves.

Erection of the B. of M.'s present modern building was completed in 1954 and, in Mar. 1957, complex banking machinery was installed at the office. This machinery automatically records withdrawals, deposits, balances and other pertinent data, and was instrumental in streamlining banking procedures.

Since its establishment in Acme, the bank has had a long succession of public spirited citizens serving as managers.

First manager was P. Todd, who remained here until March 1910. His successor was W. A. Shields, who is well remembered in the village as an active organizer of entertainment and sports.

Later managers of the B of M office include W. J. Cormack 1934-1937; H. L. Siegrist 1937-1941; R. S. Boddy, 1941-1946; and Alex S. Ferguson, who was manager here until June, 1955, when he moved to the superintendent's department of the B of M in Calgary. Mr. Ferguson retired from the bank in September, 1957, and is now living in Calgary.

The present manager, Harry Loggin, came to Acme in 1955. He had previously served as a member of the staff at this office from 1945 until 1949. Prior to taking over his new duties here, he had been accountant of the Wainwright branch of the B of M.

Although it completes its 50th year next Tuesday, the Acme B of M is only a youngster compared with the parent institution which was founded in 1817 by nine Montreal merchants and which has had an important role in the development of Canada ever since.

The B of M issued Canada's first native currency. It also founded the branch banking system—considered to be one of the finest in the world—when it opened a second office at Quebec City, two weeks after its Montreal opening. Branches soon followed at York (now Toronto) and at other outposts and trading centres across the country.

Today, with more than 780 offices throughout the ten provinces, the B of M also has offices in the United States, England and France, and at Canadian Army and R.C.A.F. bases in France and Germany.

In conjunction with the Bank of London and South America, the B of M last year founded the Bank of London and Montreal Limited, now operating in Latin America and the Caribbean.

Beiseker

The obituary will follow in next week's issue.

Mr. Nik Schwarzenberger of Edmonton is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. E. N. Hagel and family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Schmaltz of Calgary spent Wednesday with the Mike Stinn family.

Mr. Henry Reifsnnyder and his sons Reuben and Henry spent a week at Odessa, Wash. recently and Henry Sr. is now spending a few weeks at Vancouver, B.C. Visitors on July 1 at the Ted Bechtolds were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reifsnnyder and Kenneth and Carron of Calgary. BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keim of Acme (nee Teresa Sander) a son on May 19th. Congratulations.

Mr. Frank Selzler has begun building his new home. The cement was poured yesterday and the power failure which lasted several hours made everything rather complicated. However, as soon as the power was restored, work proceeded rapidly.

A severe bolt of lightning Tuesday afternoon struck a power pole in town and disrupted the power service for a few hours. Light hail fell in town, but no damage was done.

The Annual Picnic of St. Mary's Parish was held Sunday June 28 in the Beiseker Lions Friendship Park. Races and treats made it a happy day for the small fry. Two softball games were played. The first one gave the C.W.L. a 17-10 victory over the C.Y.O. In the second battle staged between the team of the Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus against the team of the Deputy Grand Knight gave the latter team a very decided victory. In Tug of War the winners were the strong men of the Recording Secretary's team of the K. of C. Mani Hagel against the Finance Secretary's team of F. P. Schmaltz. In the horse-shoe tournament Jerry Schissel and Mike Stinn came first with Bill Schwengler and John German second. The refreshment booth as well as all other arrangements were in charge of the Beiseker Knights of Columbus.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

For the motorist, summertime is "get-up-and-go" time, and the open road leads to adventure. But warm weather can create car problems. Here are some problems and ways to meet them.

Stuck in traffic, with the car starting to overheat? Shift into neutral and race the engine for about thirty seconds every few minutes. If the car's already overheated, add water only when the engine's running and the radiator registers below 180 degrees. In either case don't shut off the motor.

Are you stalled because of vapour lock? Have someone push you off the road. Lift the hood to aid air circulation. If you can get a damp cloth, put it over the fuel pump. Wait a few minutes—and don't worry; vapour lock is only a temporary problem.

If the radiator's boiling over carefully loosen cap to release steam and pressure. Then remove the cap and add water slowly.

CANADA'S Health

DIABETIC PERCENTAGE

Of every 100 Canadians, one is a diabetic; of each hundred over fifty years, five have this disease. Forty per cent of diabetics are not aware that they have the disease. People who are overweight, over forty and have a history of diabetes in the family are most susceptible. Early diagnosis and treatment can usually control the condition and allow the patient to live an almost normal life.

ASSISTANT TO THE NURSE

Every year, girls graduate from high school still dreaming of becoming nurses, although their financial situation and the need for finding employment may make this impossible. They can find a satisfying compromise in becoming an assistant to the graduate nurse. Government approved schools in this province offer a course of training that provides a certificate to the successful graduate of the school. Opportunities for work are assured. The training includes both theory and practice.

THAT SNACK

The habit of eating between meals can be blamed for much superfluous flesh and the person who is overweight and over thirty is advised to stop this.

EARLY ACME BANKERS are pictured above on the steps of the "new" Merchants Bank of Canada building which was built in 1912, replacing the first permanent building which was destroyed by fire earlier that year.

The Bank was later taken over by the Bank of Montreal which will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the branch here next week.
